A CHANGE OF POLICY.

Pope Leo Reported to Have Altered His

PARIS Aug. U. The Figure says that FARIS Aug. to.—The right of exceived in consequence of the advice received from certain French prelates, the Pope has definitely abandoned his policy of advising the Cathodies of France to fally to the support of the republic.

Assuming that the foregoing dispatch is well founced, it would mean nothing more or less than a complete revulsion of parall policy in repart to France, and at the same time a neighbor of France, and at the same time a neighbor of France, and at the same time a neighbor of France, and at the same time a neighbor of France, and at the same time a neighbor of France, and the Supreme Pontiff's beheat to the France Catholics to recognize the existing form of government in their country never received complete obedience, and its expediency was considered the more doubtful when successive elections showed that the "raillies," as the royalists and imperialists who obeyed are called, lacked the support of the electors. The "railles" were regarded as neither feesh nor fowl; the extreme right shunned them, and the moderate Republicans, with whem, in the hairral order of things, they should have consorted, refused to recognize them as true supporters of the Republic.

The recognized elections to the Councils recognize them as true supporters of the Recognize.

The recont elections to the Councils General, resulting in numerous strictly Republican gains, still further discredited the party of the "railles"—in fact, showed that, as a political party, they had but scant chance of survival.

It may be that these facts have influenced Pope Leo to change his policy toward the French republic, but in the of the detriment to his prestige that would be caused by so complete a voice-face it may be doubted whether his Holmess Las taken the action attributed to sim.—New York Herald.

WILL THEY SPLITTHE CHURCH?

Methodists Perturbed Over the Question of Woman's Eligibility as Delegates. NEW YORK, Aug. 16.-Is the Methodist Episcopal Church to be divided next year? That is the question that is being asked by many Methodists throughout the Unit of States. The question arises from the desire of the women to take part in the general conferences, which are held once in four years, the next one conven-ing in 1850.

once in four years, the next one convening in 180.

For the post eight years a majority of the clergy and laity have been clearing for this change. It was supposed that the subject had been finally settled in the negative at the general conference of 18% but it believed up sgain. But the Rev. John W. Familton devised a clever plan to rout the conservatives on their own ground. He submitted an amendment do the constitution which declares that "women shall be excluded from admission to the peneral conferences as lay delegates." A three-fourths assent of the clergy will be required to carry this amendment, and more than half the clergy are in favor of the admission of women. This plausible proposition is therefore fully charged with dynamite for the opponents of the innovation. It has aroused a bitter controversy, and the conservatives are at a loss to offset it.

The expected rupture may come after the annual conferences are held throughout the country this fall and next spring. Several are to take place in this vicinity within a few weeks, and church members are displaying unwonted energy in behalf of cheir respective partics.

THE POISON SAVED HIS LIFE.

Gatwits Evidently Meant to Shoot Himself, but Morphine Put Him to Sleep.

Willing to Go Anywhere to Get Away from the Philadelphia Prison.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—William Capps, the Fort Worth lawyer, who represents the heirs of Minnie Williams, who it is alleged was murgered by H. H. Holmes, called upon District Attorney Graham yesterday and secured permission to visit Holmes in the county prison. The attorney's object was to get from the prisoner statements that might clear away the clouds now hanging over the man was able to put him into condition so that he will recover. By the man's side was a revolver with three empty chambers. The remaining two were louded, Guiwits had discharged the three bullets through a piece of woo an inch thick and covered with tin, which was found in front of him, to try the weapon. Before he could use the revolver upon himself he had been overcome by the morphine he had previously taken. Guiwits had been despondent for some time, because his pension had been reduced, and has a family.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Aug. 16.—Mrs. Ira Warran and her daughter, whose home is in Brooklyn, went out for a walk on Tuesday evening. At a lonely place in the mountain road they were confronted by a strange-looking old man with long white hair, and a yellowish-white frowsy beard. The man were an uister and carried an old musket. The man eyed them for a mousent and then, with a sweep for a mousent and then, with a sweep
